

ISPOR Health Technology Assessment Training Program in Beijing, China

October 22-24, 2019

Marco Polo Hotel, Beijing, China

As health technology assessment (HTA) gains new importance to health systems across the Asia Pacific, the critical need for capacity building is greater than ever. ISPOR is dedicated to the improvement of healthcare decision-making globally and HTA is an important tool for decision makers to achieve that end.

Considering these developments, it is our great pleasure to announce that ISPOR will be organizing a comprehensive 3-day HTA Training in Beijing, China on October 22-24, 2019. The training will be held in proximity to the 2nd China National HTA Conference in Beijing on 26-27 October 2019, which will attract over 1,000 policymakers, academicians and industry to discuss the latest HTA developments in China. With HTA becoming codified into China's national health legislation in 2017 and with the official establishing of the National HTA Center at the China National Health Development Research Center, this ISPOR training will be timely and effective.

The ISPOR HTA Training in China will be taught by a world-renown faculty of experts and will cover the critical aspects of HTA methodology including but not limited to economic evaluation, combining clinical evidence, literature review and budget impact, with ample hands-on exercises. These hands-on exercises and discussion sessions are particularly valuable in providing a forum for stakeholder dialogue and interaction. For more information on the core curriculum visit here.

The training will be open to global registrants and there will be Chinese-English interpretation for the duration. The expected number of delegates will be 60-80 participants from around the globe and particularly from China. In addition to the training, there will be an invitation-only HTA roundtable and patient roundtable on 25 October 2019, which will provide opportunities for stakeholder engagement.

The price of registration is $400 USD for academia and government members, and $1050 for industry members. Registration includes lunch for all days. The registration website will be available shortly, but for more information and to express your interest in participating please contact asiaconsortium@ispor.org.
